

ENTERTAINMENT

Tzafun

Contributed by Jeremy Kenner

Source: Compiled

At the conclusion of the meal, the children are given an opportunity to find the Aphikommon (Afikomen) that has been hidden earlier in the evening. The reader redeems it from the child who has found it and distributes pieces of it to all present. The child gets a prize.

After partaking of the Aphikommon, it is customary to eat nothing else. As for wine, though, we're only halfway through ...