In tonight's Mexican Jewish Seder before we transition from the formal story telling, we want to honor the stories of all of our communities locked in the fight for freedom from slavery for all people across the world. Particularly we also don't want to only focus on the ancient story of Exodus, or just the struggles of the Jewish people, but the modern day communities suffering from systemic oppression whose liberty is bound with our own. Turn to the person next to you and share a story of your family's modern day exodus or a community you know that you think represents the spirit of Pesach in the quest for libertad.
