WE'RE UNBREAKING UP

Reflect: Our world is broken and we are often unintentionally the source of that breaking. What's something (object, relationship, etc.) you intentionally or unintentionally broke this past year?

The Jewish tradition teaches that it's not up to us to finish the work of repairing all that is broken with the world, but that we still must engage and do all we can. What actions will you take this year to heal and repair?

Break the middle matzah of the three at the head of the table - the bigger half magically becomes the Afikoman (more on that later). See if you can snag it when the leader isn't looking and hold it ransom - we can't finish our #friendseder™ without it!
