(as if the Seder wasn't long enough already)

Each year we ask the traditional four questions. This year we're adding a fifth, and since Passover is about freedom, we're going with that theme. What do you seek freedom from? Or another way to put it, what are you a "slave" to?

Your phone? Vaping? CNN? Too much guilt? Exercising every damn day? Maybe something bigger, like a relationship that's run its course, or your career. There are no wrong answers, just a chance to think more deeply about the way we conduct our lives.
